

Farm Checks of the Fens (ii) The Catalogue

Gary Oddie

The following is a listing of all of the tokens or checks from the fens that have come to the attention of the author. Due to the numbers involved, with almost 700 issuers and 3000 tokens catalogued, a concise method for listing has had to be devised in order to keep the list to a manageable number of pages.

The place names are listed alphabetically in bold, followed by an alphabetical listing of the issuer's surnames. Where multiple surnames appear with different initials or first names, the first names are also alphabetical. On the same line as the surname are cryptic notes regarding extra information that has been found about the issuer, e.g. directory entries, dates, addresses etc. Indented below this are the tokens, with denomination, diameter (in mm) and material listed. If a group of tokens has a common feature, for example they are all 26mm and made from brass, that information will appear at the end of that line, to save repetition. If an issuer has several distinct series of tokens, these are listed on separate lines, but in most cases the true sequence of issue is not known, except where the £sd tokens are listed before the decimal pieces.

For the cardboard tokens the colours are somewhat subjective, and often difficult to identify on worn or dirty specimens. Again to save space, colours have been abbreviated to three letters with lt for light, dk for dark, blk for black, wht for white, bgd for burgundy etc. Other abbreviations are as follows: Cu = copper, Br = brass, Al = aluminium, Fe/Al rim = a card token with a steel or Aluminium rim, sq = square, cd = card, rdd = rounded, and nv = no value stated.

Most of the issuers produced a range of denominations allowing easy transactions at the weighing-in station. Hoards suggest that the numbers of each denomination might be 100-1000 tokens, depending on the size of the farm and the numbers of pickers working at any one time. However several issuers are known from just a single denomination (often a hoard of a few hundred pieces), and these are likely deposits for trays or bags, and will be the only issue for that farm.

This listing has been greatly augmented by the generosity of other collectors who have made their own holdings and lists available for inclusion.

The following people are thanked: Duncan Pennock, also via whom the listing of the late Harry Chambers collection was made available, Roy Rains, Dick Pentelow, Jim Hutchinson, Geoff Percival, Alan Judd (Coins of Beeston), Andrew Cunningham, Philip Mernick, Chris Parrish, John Markham and Howard and Frances Simmons (the Simmons Gallery). My apologies to anyone that I have missed. In the past there were also several dealers' lists that included checks from this series – sadly no longer with us - John Whitmore, Ralph Hayes, and Bryan Hennem.

There is a continuous, but slow stream of new material appearing on the market, mainly through the eBay website, ranging from the singular metal detector finds to hoards of the complete holdings of a particular farmer. It is estimated that this list describes only 80% of the tokens that were once issued and that another 700 tokens or more will be added in the coming years.
